

MADISON TO TEHRAN

the great unrest - then and now

with

PAUL MASON

award-winning journalist for BBC World News America, BBC Newsnight, and author of Live Working or Die Fighting

THE TWO HUNDRED year story of the global working-class and its many struggles for justice comes to life in this book through the voices of remarkable individuals: child laborers in Dickensian England, visionary women on Parisian barricades, gun-toting railway strikers in America's Wild West, and beer-swilling German metalworkers who tried to stop World War I. It is a story of urban slums, self-help cooperatives, choirs and brass bands, free love, and self-education by candlelight. And, from Mason's interwoven reportage from the frontlines of contemporary labor disputes in the global south; to current events from Egypt to Wisconsin, this living history of defiance, idealism, and self-sacrifice is still with us today.
